FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

I find it hard to summarize the past year at Carolina and Morehead-Cain. There are so many stories to tell.

Many of you know the year was full of significant change, challenge, and accomplishment. At times the campus community—Morehead-Cains included—disagreed on the best path forward. But there has been a constant: a commitment to each other and the values our community shares.

Even in trying times for our University, Morehead-Cains are dedicated to leading with empathy and optimism. We stand up for what we believe in, but we also learn from others. These values bond us together but can take many different forms in practice.

Take this year for example. Ashton Martin '20 won the race for student body president with a platform focused on academic affairs and student wellness. Raymond Tu '21 became co-president of the Campus Y with a promise to foster cross-campus collaboration between organizations. Alice Huang '16 and Emily Venturi '18 received the prestigious Schwarzman Scholarship for study in China. Habitat for Humanity CEO Jonathan Reckford '84 delivered a stirring commencement address for the University. And Ned Sharpless '88 first took charge of the National Cancer Institute before taking over as acting commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

These are but a few examples of scholars and alumni answering the call of North Carolina Governor Roy Cooper '79. During October's best-attended Morehead-Cain Alumni Forum in history, Governor Cooper called on each of us to serve our communities. To lead. To help others. To better ourselves and those around us. Many of us find it a promise worth making and keeping.

Within the Program, we made further tweaks to the interview process and selection cycle designed to increase validity and reduce bias. We expanded summer enrichment and study abroad opportunities for current scholars. And we're striving to support your love of lifelong learning and your wish to remain connected with each other long after you leave Carolina.

How? In addition to the Alumni Forum, we helped alumni host events in Chicago, Denver, Nashville, Seattle, Toronto, and Washington, DC. Those gatherings are only the beginning. Next spring we will hold the first West-Coast Morehead-Cain Alumni Symposium. I hope to see many of you there in San Francisco; it will be a special weekend rivaled only by the Alumni Forum. In the coming year, we plan to support regional groups in New York, Los Angeles, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta, and more.

As we close this academic year, we say thank you to Morehead-Cain Foundation trustee Peggy Weaver. Peggy was key to the generous, transformative gift from the Gordon and Mary Cain Foundation in 2007. Her term as a trustee has come to an end, but I will be forever grateful for her support and her lasting impact on the Program. We are pleased to welcome Rachel Mazyck Pfeifer '02 as our new trustee.

The Morehead-Cain community is vibrant and thoughtful, passionate and adaptable. Alumni and scholars leave me in awe every day. The next time you visit Chapel Hill, I hope you'll stop by the Foundation and see for yourself all the incredible things happening here.

Warmly,

Charles E. Lovelace, Jr. '77

Morehead-Cain Day of Giving

NOVEMBER 19, 2018

The Morehead-Cain community held its third Day of Giving on November 19, 2018—a one-day giving blitz that inspired alumni and friends around the world and celebrated the Program's founding in 1945.

From in-person visits to social media posts that reached tens of thousands of people, the Morehead-Cain family spent the day sharing their stories of inspiration and gratitude.

Your support put the Program in position to reach new heights by year's end. You started the day at 7 percent alumni participation for the academic year and ended at 22 percent once all gifts were processed. In all, 508 alumni made gifts and met $75,000 in additional challenges. Thank you!

MARK YOUR CALENDARS for the 2019 Day of Giving: Monday, November 25. We're doing it TOGETHER, again. Bigger than ever—1,000 donors. We need your help to reach our ambitious goal!

"I support Morehead-Cain because they aim to support the next generation of leaders who have the spirit of public service at their core... individuals who are visionary, hardworking, and determined to do the right thing." – Michelle Jana Chan '96

#WeGiveTOGETHER

Morehead-Cain

Ray Sawyer '13 on why #WeGiveTOGETHER:

"The Morehead-Cain took a kid with big dreams, a ton of potential, and little exposure outside his small town—and connected him to opportunity. I support Morehead-Cain today so we can keep investing in the potential of others, no matter where they come from."

Morehead-Cain

"The Morehead-Cain inspired me to dream bigger than I ever thought possible. And the best part? Then they gave me the resources for me to go achieve those dreams (and so much more)." – Joshua Ford '12

ARE YOU A MOREHEAD-CAIN PARTNER?

Morehead-Cain Partner is a relatively new designation that recognizes and honors the loyal commitment of many of our Morehead-Cain Alumni.

The Partner designation came about after many years of having Morehead-Cain Alumni ask how they can best support the Morehead-Cain Program. Several years ago, we began sharing a list of four simple things all alumni can do to ensure the future of the Program:

-  PROMOTE. Please make sure that “Morehead-Cain Scholar” is on your résumé, in your CV, on your LinkedIn profile, and/or in your professional biography. You are the Morehead-Cain legacy. Telling others raises awareness and recognition. We also ask that you commit to keeping your Morehead-Cain Network (MCN) profile up to date so that fellow alumni and scholars can connect with you.
-  CONNECT. Please respond to requests (reasonable ones, of course!) from current scholars or fellow alumni. There is no better way to express gratitude for what others have given you than by sharing advice or offering a connection. Each time this happens, the Morehead-Cain network is strengthened and the lifelong designation of Morehead-Cain gains deeper significance.
-  RECRUIT. Please help recruit future scholars when we call on you with specific needs. For recipients of the scholarship and their parents, no voice is more authentic than yours in representing the value of the Morehead-Cain experience.
-  INVEST. Please make an annual gift to the Morehead-Cain Scholarship Fund (MCSF). Your participation at an appropriate level for you matters deeply, both in the endorsement that it represents and in helping to sustain and enhance the Morehead-Cain Program. The cumulative impact of annual alumni support is transformational—the MCSF provides approximately 20 percent of the Foundation’s annual operating budget.

To honor the dedication of all who support the Morehead-Cain Program by agreeing to these four commitments, we are now designating such alumni as Morehead-Cain Partners.

So far, 776 Morehead-Cain Alumni have signed up to be Partners.

Are you a Morehead-Cain Partner? If so, we thank you for your loyal support!

If you already do these four things (or are willing to!), but haven’t signed up to be a Partner yet, please call Emily or Megan at 919-962-1201 to join this important group!

I can't think of any wind beneath my wings that ever was more important than the Morehead-Cain. Maybe the woman I chose to marry.
But the scholarship? Wow.
What a difference it makes.

2019 Honor Roll of Giving

MOREHEAD-CAIN ALUMNI DISTINGUISHED PROFESSORSHIPS

Among the many ways Morehead-Cain Alumni have given back to the University has been the establishment of three thriving UNC professorships. The first—the Morehead-Cain Alumni Distinguished Professorship—was the University's first million-dollar endowed professorship. Created by Morehead-Cain Alumni in 1985 as part of their very first collective fundraising effort, the endowment has grown large enough to support two current Morehead-Cain Alumni Distinguished Professors—Evelyn Huber in political science and Geoffrey Sayre-McCord in philosophy. The third professorship is the Morehead-Cain Alumni Distinguished Visiting Professorship for Honors, which brings to campus a prominent individual each year to teach an Honors course in his or her area of expertise. It was created by Morehead-Cain Alumni in 2002 as part of their contribution to the University's Carolina First Campaign.

Parents' Perspective: Sandy McKenzie and Larry Nabatoff

When Sandy McKenzie considers what the Morehead-Cain has meant to her family, the word that comes to mind is "opportunity." The mother of Nicholas (Nick) McKenzie '19, Sandy says the Summer Enrichment Program and the alumni network are what she sees as the biggest opportunities provided by the scholarship.

Even the physical space provided by the Foundation was an opportunity for Nick to find community.

"Nick being able to go to the Foundation building, having a home base with the other scholars—there's this bond. The scholars are all driven and self-motivated."

Last summer, Nick worked in Providence, Rhode Island, on an independent project administering medical care to the homeless. This fall, he'll begin medical school at the University of Chicago.

"The Morehead-Cain helped build his résumé and life experiences to be a strong candidate for that," Sandy says.

Nick's personal and professional growth was a large part of why Sandy stepped up to help lead the parent giving campaign for the Class of 2019.

"As a family, we're very grateful to the whole Program and felt it was a way to repay what they have given Nicholas and all the other scholars," Sandy says.

Larry Nabatoff, the father of Sebastian Nabatoff '19 and another leader of the parent giving campaign, says he feels similarly to Sandy. He says when Sebastian first received the scholarship, the Nabatoff family's initial reaction was of joy and pride. Then followed a sense of amazement.

"The first thing that occurred to me as it got started was: What a door has been opened for him to be exposed to new ideas, opportunities, and experiences!" Larry says. "The second thing was the level of independence. They arrive on campus and are presented with their stipend for the semester. And it's totally his responsibility to manage that. It was a surprise to me in a positive way."

Larry says he knows Sebastian's life will be different because of the Morehead-Cain.

"That life experience of knowing you can challenge yourself in areas that are unknown—and succeed at various levels—is fairly essential for establishing a framework for life beyond school," Larry says. Because of the Morehead-Cain, "Sebastian knows he can take on a challenge."

Now that he has graduated, Sebastian intends to begin working for the consulting company Bain & Company in Atlanta—but first, he's going to hike the 500-mile El Camino de Santiago pilgrimage in Spain.

Larry says that co-leading the parent giving campaign with his wife, Kelly, was "the least we could do."

"We saw that the Morehead-Cain Scholarship provided our son so much—not just a wonderful opportunity for a great education but also amazing life experiences. We're incredibly grateful for that. It was our small way of helping to give back."

A Message From the Fund Board Chair

Dear Friends,

Milestones can be a funny thing.

For no sooner do we climb one peak, than we start thinking about the next one. That's where I find myself as I write this.

A record number of you made a gift to the Morehead-Cain Scholarship Fund during the 2018–2019 academic year. It's the ninth straight year you broke your own record. During that time, you lifted alumni participation from 20 percent to more than 50 percent.

The impact—your impact—is significant. When we announced the TOGETHER. Campaign in 2015, we made a promise to raise $50 million by the end of 2018. You raised $52 million. And since that time, the number has grown to $56 million.

Your effort has transformed the Program. In 2015, 195 scholars called Carolina home. Today the Program is composed of 290 bright young leaders. It's a nearly 50 percent increase, thanks to your generosity and vision.

This brings me back to thinking about the milestones. What we accomplished together is incredible—but I don't think we're done. We have merely turned a corner.

Our fundraising success to date has allowed us to maintain Morehead-Cain as one of the preeminent merit scholarship programs in the world. Reaching our new goal of $75 million will help sustain, grow, and enhance the Program and the University. It will also ensure that the distinction of being a Morehead-Cain is more than a four-year experience. The Alumni Forum, the expanding number of regional events, and the upcoming Alumni Symposium in San Francisco are proof that this is a lifelong community of scholars, principled leaders, and friends.

This is an exciting time for Morehead-Cain, and as we look toward the next peak, we will need the support of our alumni—all 3,152 of you.

That support has changed and is changing the lives of scholars and their families. Your generosity has created and is creating opportunity for students that did not exist three years ago.

You have given an extraordinary gift. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Keith Cowan '78
Chair, Morehead-Cain Scholarship Fund Board of Directors

The scholarship enabled me to go to the finest public university in the country—with an identity. I loved having my Morehead-Cain family.

→ Of the 330,000+ Carolina alumni, only 3,152 are Morehead-Cains.

WE'RE ONLY A SMALL FRACTION OF THE TOTAL ALUMNI GROUP, BUT WE'VE HAD AN OUTSIZED IMPACT. TOGETHER, WE CAN GROW OUR IMPACT EVEN MORE.

I came to Carolina as someone who spoke about chasing far-fetched dreams. I left someone fully equipped and encouraged to actually do it.

THE SELECTION PROCESS

The Morehead-Cain selection process begins as five distinct processes, each leveraging the expertise of Foundation staff, a corps of professional readers, and hundreds of alumni interviewers and volunteer evaluators. Candidates enter our process via nomination—either their schools' or their own—and a team of readers renders initial assessments and makes recommendations. It is the task of these assessors to answer the essential question: Should this applicant be considered for a semifinal interview or not?

At the semifinalist stage, North Carolinians participate in one twenty-minute interview with three members of the selection committee and complete a forty-five-minute group activity. Out-of-state and international semifinalists use an automated online video interview platform. These recorded interviews are reviewed by Foundation staff and trained Morehead-Cain Alumni. British candidates complete the recorded video interviews, which are assessed by British Morehead-Cain Alumni. The resulting semifinalist group is interviewed in person in London. The UNC Office of Undergraduate Admissions also refers to our process particularly strong Early Action applicants. At each of these levels, we are able to garner valuable information about the semifinalists that helps us shape our finalist pool.

In 2018–2019, 140 finalists were identified and invited to campus for Final Selection Weekend—the point where all five selection pathways converge. For nearly four days, finalists explore Carolina and complete one twenty-minute panel interview and four short one-on-one interviews with members of our Central Selection Committee. These interviews are designed to be warm and inviting, and to set the candidates at ease so that they might confidently represent themselves. Interviews are weighed and discussed at length, after which interviewer groups make final recommendations to Morehead-Cain Trustees and selection staff. Scholarship offers are ultimately made to slightly more than half of our finalist group.

In mid-March, recruitment efforts ramp up as we mobilize Carolina faculty and administrators, current scholars, and Morehead-Cain Alumni to reach out to our awardees and encourage them to accept our offer. The finalized class is announced to the public in April.

British Finalists (now current scholars) at Final Selection Weekend

British Selection Process

All British secondary schools are eligible to participate in the Morehead-Cain selection process. Administration of the British Programme and selection process is coordinated by the Morehead-Cain Foundation. The London-based British Morehead-Cain Scholarship Committee—established by British Morehead-Cain Alumni—oversees the selection process in Great Britain. The scholarship committee designates a selection committee each year, a subcommittee of which reviews nominees' video interviews and selects semifinalists. A larger committee then interviews semifinalists in London and selects four students to interview as finalists in Chapel Hill. The selection committee works closely with a number of educational charities and associations, including the Sutton Trust and the US-UK Fulbright Commission, and also with Winston House—UNC's home in London.

Canadian Selection Process

Any qualified student graduating from an accredited high school or CEGEP in Canada may either be nominated for the Morehead-Cain Scholarship by his or her school or apply for the scholarship as a self-nominee. The Foundation has also partnered with Shad Canada—a youth empowerment organization that offers STEAM and entrepreneurship programs for high school students at 17 university campuses each year. All Shad participants are invited to submit applications for the Morehead-Cain during their final year of high school. Canadian semifinalists are selected by professional and staff readers and participate in a video interview, which is reviewed by trained Canadian Alumni. Approximately four Canadian semifinalists are selected to interview as finalists in Chapel Hill.

THE SUMMER ENRICHMENT PROGRAM

In its 45th year, the Morehead-Cain Summer Enrichment Program (SEP) has a brand-new look. In response to scholar and alumni feedback, input from experts, and a study of best practices in the field, the Summer Enrichment Program has been updated to incorporate new and different stretch experiences for scholars. We strive to provide scholars with enrichment experiences that are second to none and that will prepare them to be the leaders of the next generation.

The Summer Enrichment Program now has two distinct phases. The first two summers, Outdoor Leadership and Civic Collaboration, are the fundamental summers: shared and team-based experiences designed to help scholars better understand themselves, each other, and their greater communities.

In the Outdoor Leadership summer, incoming scholars spend several weeks in the North American wilderness on a leadership course that tests their limits and inspires self-discovery. In the summers of 2018 and 2019, we tried something new. We provided a small number of scholars the opportunity to participate in a National Outdoor Leadership School (NOLS) course in Alaska made up of only Morehead-Cain Scholars.

After three years of piloting the program, Civic Collaboration is now the second summer in the SEP series. Teams of scholars work together to take a deep dive into a city issue, collaborating with local change-makers, and determining how they might contribute to the cause in their own way. This summer challenges scholars to manage ambiguity and rely on the strengths of their team. The Public Service summer will phase out after this year.

The third and fourth summers are the self-designed summers, in which scholars can personalize their learning with experiences that will suit their interests, academic paths, and career goals. To ensure that all scholars have significant international experiences, we launched the Global Perspective summer this year. In this program, scholars can design a global experience of their choice, combining modes of learning such as research, self-study, service, internship, shadowing, or purposeful travel. Scholars can also now apply for summer study abroad programs in conjunction with their self-designed global projects.

Finally, scholars cap their undergraduate experiences with an internship in the Professional Experience summer. Scholars seek professional work experiences in any field or industry. With the full resources of the Morehead-Cain Foundation staff, Morehead-Cain Alumni, and friends of the Program behind them, scholars have practically limitless opportunities at their fingertips.

The Morehead-Cain Summer Enrichment Program provides experiences that many students might not be able to arrange or afford on their own. They receive stipends each summer to cover expenses, and benefit from a community of more than 3,000 alumni who are eager to help the next generation of scholars in their journeys. With guidance from Morehead-Cain advisors, scholars tailor their summers to explore and expand their personal and professional interests—wherever in the world those interests may take them.

*Morehead-Cain Alumni-facilitated placements

A young man with short brown hair, smiling, is sitting on a rocky, moss-covered mountain trail. He is wearing a grey Patagonia sweatshirt. Behind him is a massive, jagged mountain peak with patches of snow and a blue sky with some clouds.

The John Motley Morehead Society

The John Motley Morehead Society planned-giving society was created in 2007 to recognize the legacy gifts of alumni and friends and to pay tribute to the founder of the Morehead-Cain Program. John Motley Morehead believed that an investment in the education of young leaders would yield the greatest return and make the biggest difference in our world. It was this conviction that led him to establish a trust in 1945 to support the scholarship program and to turn it into a permanent legacy through a substantial gift by bequest in 1965. It is this same conviction that inspires the planned giving of alumni and friends.

With gratitude and esteem, we recognize the following members of the John Motley Morehead Society:

John Motley Morehead Society Spotlight: Anne and Alex Lassiter '10

You wouldn't know it today, but Alex Lassiter used to move through life with fear. As a child, he avoided slumber parties and resisted sleep-away camp. The only thing he'd eat was grilled chicken, and he'd never try new foods. He didn't travel—and wouldn't if he had the chance.

"I had all these rules in my life," Alex explains. "But I'm the exact opposite of that today."

In college, Alex chose to spend six months living in Prague. He spent a summer teaching English in a remote town in rural China. He now attends supper clubs where he eats meals across the culinary spectrum. What caused this dramatic transformation?

"I owe that change to the Morehead-Cain," Alex says.

"The scholarship made me who I am today. It put me in a position to meet my wife. It made me happy with myself. I was afraid to do anything, and then during my first Morehead-Cain summer, somebody showed me it was okay to live a life that's 'out there,' to take risks, to focus your life on experiencing as much as is humanly possible."

Alex met his wife, Anne, while traveling in Europe during one of his Morehead-Cain summers. The couple and their two young sons still travel internationally every year.

"The Morehead-Cain exposed me to what life could look like," Alex says. "Before the Morehead-Cain, I'd never really left the country—and then I traveled all over the world. I did a Discovery Fund project in South Africa. I taught English in China. I followed jazz music across Europe. I got a taste of what an extraordinary life would look like."

Less than two years after graduating from Carolina, Alex set off to be an entrepreneur. He says the Morehead-Cain gave him that confidence and boldness.

"I would not have had the courage to start a business, go a little bit against the grain, start my own thing. But that's been the basis for everything I've done in my life."

Alex is the co-founder and senior vice president of business development for Gather Technologies, a cloud-based event planning platform.

"I've learned a ton in the last six years," he says. "If you were to list out all the times we messed something up and I learned something—it's really incredible. I feel like I've gotten sixty years of experience."

Alex says that when he and Anne sat down to create their will and estate plan, "it was a no-brainer" to include a planned gift to Morehead-Cain.

"When I think about the top three things in my life that have impacted who I am today, the Program is easily one of those," Alex says. "If I were to write my life story, that would be one of the most significant pieces of it—and it's a gift. We have the opportunity to give that to more and more people."

More young people, Alex says, whose eyes could be opened. Just like his.

It's not just about carrying the label of being a Morehead-Cain. It's the character you use to carry the label.
To be a good human being—that's at the core of it.
